A message from our founder and coordinator

As founder and organiser of Birmingham Open Studios I am delighted to see such a large increase in participation for Birmingham Open Studios 2023. Last year we boasted 100 artists and crafters for the first time. To be able to showcase 169 incredible creatives at this year's event is a fantastic endorsement.

The event also continues to grow geographically across the city and this year there are artists in the city centre, the iconic Jewellery Quarter, and Digbeth. There are also more artists on the peripheries, located in Quinton, Hall Green, Shirley and Barnt Green. Be sure not to miss these.

Open Studios breaks down barriers between artists and art lovers. Artists interact directly with audiences and demonstrate how they work. Audiences gain personal insight into the making of art, speak directly to the makers and see where art is made. There are no sale commission fees, and no restrictions on the amount of art that can be exhibited and sold, resulting in boundless possibilities for those exhibiting.

Birmingham Open Studios is now a regular fixture of Birmingham's cultural and creative calendar. We are proud to be championing creativity in our city, tearing down boundaries, embracing new audiences and bringing art directly to the public. It is a family-friendly event, that benefits the city, and grows bigger every year.

The evidence we collect shows clearly that there is a demand for this event in Birmingham from artists and the public, and with this in mind we are determined to keep growing the event. This could not be achieved without the tireless efforts of my volunteer organisers, our supporters, sponsors and those who participate. As we grow we are looking to attract funding, sponsors and donors, so please reach out to us at info@birminghamopenstudios.co.uk if you are able to support us in any way.

- Owen de Visser (Founder)

Joe Lycett, Birmingham Open Studios' Ambassador

This year we are honoured to welcome popular comedian, TV presenter and painter Joe Lycett as our new Ambassador.

"I've long said that Birmingham's art scene is one of the most exciting and unique in the country. I'm biased, of course, but I truly think there's an approach that seems underground, rebellious, inclusive, funny and ultimately unfazed by the rules of the traditional art world.

Birmingham Open Studios is a very cool and inspiring opportunity to see that art where it's made - in kitchens, living rooms, garden sheds and beyond - that proves that anyone can and should make art."

- JOE LYCETT

1: Andrea Coles

Acrylics, Mixed Media and Paintings

487 Ridgacre Rd West, Quinton, West Midlands, B32 1AR

Andrea is a figurative artist, concentrating mostly on female forms which are ethereal, mysterious and romantic. Her figures are often sensual, sometimes elegant and feminine, occasionally darker and challenging. Her work varies from small studies to larger pieces on birchwood panels.

7: Neil Hotchin

Ceramics and Pottery

Martineau Gardens, 27 Priory Rd, Edgbaston, B5 7UG

Neil creates high-fired functional stoneware and is particularly drawn to the effects of flame and ash found on pots fired in wood-burning kilns. Unlike other more predictable methods of firing pots, failures are commonplace but when it all comes together the results can be both unexpected and magical.

In: @neilhotchin

8: Maggie Leaver

Paintings and Prints

12 Sir John's Rd, Selly Park, B29 7ER

Maggie Leaver uses contemporary painting approaches and experimental methods in watercolour and oil, in often expressive and complex paintings. Her paintings have been selected for national and regional exhibitions and she is a member of Birmingham Art Circle.

10a: Glenn Campbell

Jewellery, Tuition and Workshops

Lux Gallery, 13 Greenfield Crescent, Edgbaston, B15 3AU

In his jewellery, Glenn Campbell tries to re-create some part of the beauty we can all see in the natural world. His fascination is with the smaller parts that make up this world. The pod and leaf form you see in his work are the visible result of a deep interest in nature. It's this inspiration that directs the over-all feel of his work, but a greater influence is that which stems from directly experimenting with the metal. This fusion is what excites him.

W: gcampbell.co.uk In: @gcampbell.co.uk

10b: Maureen Mace

Paintings, Prints, Cards

Lux Gallery, 13 Greenfield Crescent, Edgbaston, B15 3AU

Maureen Mace's artworks are full of colour, detail and ideas which tell stories that are dreamlike and slightly surreal. She paints in oil on canvas with tiny brushes, building her paintings in many layers that can take up to 3 months to make. Her work is influenced by the people, imaginary animals, rich gold leaf and humour in manuscripts, tapestries and paintings of the Medieval period.

49: Gareth Austin

Oil On Canvas, Paintings, Prints

134 Newlands Road, Stirchley, B30 2RH

Gareth Austin is fascinated with contrasts; how bright sunlight hitting objects creates deep shadows, sharply defining materials and textures. His graphics background noticeably influences the design of Gareth's paintings. Realism for him is a way of freezing time, an invitation to appreciate the dazzling beauty of simple things.

60e: sparklymouse

Embroidery, Illustration, Textiles

The Old Post Office, 1533 Pershore Rd, Stirchley, B30 2JH

Inspired by people, shapes and colour that she finds in her daily life, Louise is experimenting constantly with new themes and ideas. Carrying a notebook and sketchbook at all times helps to empty her brain of the million ideas floating around. Eventually some of those squiggles turn into hours of painstaking stitching. Patience is the key with hours (sometimes weeks) worth of time going into each piece, all in the hope of bringing smiles and laughs to faces.
